DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Brickley-Cook House c. 1870-1890 is a two story four bay by one room frame house with T Kitchen wing on Hopewell Road just east of west Nottingham. The house faces west with the main gable running north/south.

The house appears to have grown in a number of stages beginning with a two story two bay by one room frame house in the third quarter of the 19th century. Attached to its north gable end is another two story two bay by one room frame house that continues the same roofline. The kitchen wing is another two story two bay by one room frame block which is centrally located on the back. Even more recent shed additions have enlarged the living space further. The house rests on a partial fieldstone foundation and is clad with aluminum siding. A medium sloped composition tile roof has extended eaves.

The west (main) facade has four fairly evenly spaced door and window openings. The present main entrance occupies the second bay from the north 6/6 sash windows fill the other three openings. Four 6/6 sash light the second floor. A wider space separates the central bays. A shed roof front porch with block foundation covers the entire first floor.

The north and south gable ends have 6/6 sash windows on each floor. An interior end brick stove stack rises out of the north end.

The kitchen wing has had shed additions attached to either side. A brick stove stack also rises out of the end gable.

The interior has been partially remodeled especially the kitchen. The front rooms have retained late 19th century woodwork including door surrounds and a mantel in the north parlor. The mantel has a reeded opening surround with bulls-eye corner blocks which supports a bracketed shelf. The same surround molding is used around the doors and windows in the north parlor. A straight stair rises along the interior wall. It appears to date from the late 19th century.

The south room has been remodeled recently and the molded door surrounds are all that remain.

The only basement is under the norther room. An 1890 date along with Samuel Brickley is written on one of the floor joists and possibly documents the addition.

A medium sized board and batten frame barn and chicken coup stand east of the house.

SPECIFIC DATES

BUILDER/ARCHITECT

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Even though this house has been generally remodeled, it does illustrate the continual use of a specific form for the first house and subsequent additions. The builder eventually conceived a typical county farm house through what appears to have been two separate additions. The property was owned in 1877 by Samuel M. Brickley.
